The future is bright for Goodyear, AZ!

Nestled between the Sierra Estrella and White Tank Mountains, Goodyear is a short drive from downtown Phoenix and is one of the fastest growing cities in the United States. The growing suburb offers an abundance of affordable housing and southwest charm. It's a great place to live or build a business. Goodyear is rapidly becoming the employment hub of the West Valley, with new employers bringing high-quality jobs to the city's medical and tech corridors. Several Fortune 500 companies also call Goodyear home, including Amazon.com, Microsoft, Ball, Dick's Sporting Goods, and soon, Nike.

The city's thriving Medical Innovation Corridor remains a competitive and strategic location for the healthcare and biomedical industries. The corridor is anchored by the Abrazo West Campus, a Level 1 trauma center, and Cancer Treatment Centers of America. These institutions provide world-class service to the entire Western U.S. region. Adelante Healthcare, Southwest Kidney Institute and DiVita Inc. are welcome additions to the emerging number of healthcare and research-focused enterprises.

Goodyear also has a rich history in aviation and aerospace. The Phoenix-Goodyear Airport hosts numerous prospering companies grounded in technology-based products and solutions for the aerospace and defense sectors.

Goodyear's robust business ecosystem, diverse and talented labor pool, low-cost operating environment and excellent connectivity creates optimal opportunities to attract and grow companies in the advanced manufacturing, healthcare, biomedical, aerospace, aviation, information technology, higher education, retail and entertainment sectors.

HISTORY OF GOODYEAR

Nearly year-round sun is what brings visitors to Goodyear today, exactly as it did more than 100 years ago. In 1916, World War I was raging and America needed all hands on deck to support the effort. When the Ohio-based Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company was seeking an alternative to highly desirable cotton from Egypt, they set sights on a place with a similar climate – the desert southwest in Arizona. The voracious appetite of the pesky cotton-eating boll weevil population destroying crops in Egypt was the impetus for Paul Litchfield, a Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company executive and expert tire designer, to travel to Arizona. After purchasing more than 20,000 acres of land, the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company relocated to the area now known as Litchfield Park. The Egyptian cotton farm area was first called Egypt, but later evolved into Goodyear Farms. The Goodyear Post Office, general store and school opened in 1918. At the threat of World War II, the Goodyear Corporation's aircraft division was actively involved with operations at a naval airfield near Goodyear Farms. That Naval airfield was home to 132 Navy blimps, and of course, the iconic Goodyear Blimp. With a population of 1,500, the area surrounding the airfield, now known as Phoenix-Goodyear Airport, was incorporated in 1946 as the town of Goodyear.

GOODYEAR BALLPARK

Goodyear Ballpark, the spring training and player-development home of the Cleveland Indians and Cincinnati Reds, opened in 2009 and has a seating capacity of 10,311. The multiuse facility is a hub of activity all year long, attracting locals and tourists with Major League Baseball's Cactus League, which runs from late February through March. The Indians and Reds have a year-round presence with extended spring training, Arizona League (summer rookie league), Fall Instructional League and player rehabilitation at their player development complexes. In addition, Goodyear Ballpark hosts local, regional and national baseball tournaments, adventure runs, festivals, graduations, private and corporate events and the city's signature annual events.

For the kids:

Goodyear Ballpark introduced a new mascot in 2019 – a blue, furry friend named Ace. Ace can be found at all spring training games, as well as community events. The ballpark also offers child ticket pricing in three different seating areas, which is half of an adult-priced ticket. There is a kids-only on-field experience on Saturdays beginning Feb. 29 (limited availability), and every Sunday is Kids Day, when kids can run the bases after the game.

For the adults:

Adults can cool off with a tasty beverage in the Craft Beer Corner located down the third-base line. The area features beer flights with choices from more than a dozen craft and domestic beers, as well as wine and cocktails. The ballpark also features Happy Hour food and drink specials for the first hour after gates open prior to all night games.

For the foodies:

Fans will find a taste of Ohio at the concession stands with Cincinnati's Skyline Chili and Bertman Ball Park Mustard, a Cleveland favorite. The ballpark features a variety of food offerings, with everything from taco salads to gourmet burgers, and a must-try: the award-winning taquito dog.

At the team complexes:

The Indians and Reds player development complexes are located just south of the ballpark, and from mid-February through the end of spring training season, fans may watch the players' workouts beginning at 9:15 a.m. daily.

With a strong focus on the fan experience, Goodyear Ballpark provides a number of fan experiences and promotional events each season, including autograph days, giveaway days and Fan Appreciation Day.

SPRING TRAINING

Major League Baseball's spring training in Arizona draws nearly two million fans each season, with 15 of the 30 teams playing at 10 Cactus League facilities. The ballparks are all within a 45-minute drive of one another, making it convenient for fans to watch their teams play at a variety of venues while in town.

Spring training offers a more intimate atmosphere than major league ballparks. Fans can watch the teams' daily workouts up close, and they might even catch a fly ball or land an autograph from their favorite player.
